Vancouver enjoys a moderate climate that makes the city and its surrounding areas a constant pleasure. During summer, you might be inclined to sprawl on a sandy beach and savour the views of blue Pacific waters and green mountain slopes . . . spring and autumn could find you enjoying the floral beauty and changing hues of our magnificent parks . . . while winter might lead you to the top of Grouse or Seymour Mountain for skiing, combined with a towering view of the city and harbour. Whenever you come, you'll find beauty and fascination in the area's unique points of interest . . . places like the new Museum-Planetarium complex and our two universities, so perfectly in harmony with their splendid settings. And you can look forward to a wide range of relaxing pursuits, from year-round golf and fishing to sparkling night life and delightful dining. Now, let's take a closer look at this incomparable holiday centre.

Summer fun around Vancouver

Summertime is when you really appreciate Vancouver's clean, sandy beaches. Only minutes from downtown, you can enjoy swimming, sunning and relaxing beside the blue Pacific. There are 11 miles of beaches within the city itself . . . and many other seaside fun spots nearby. The area has several marinas to equip you for boating . . . and for fabulous salmon fishing, right within sight of your hotel. If golf is your game, you'll find that Vancouver has some of the most scenic courses anywhere. The city abounds in tennis courts, too . . . and the surrounding mountains have excellent hiking trails. But maybe sightseeing is your favorite activity — if so, you're in the right place. Vancouver will reward you with a rich assortment of unforgettable sights, from authentic Indian totem poles to one of the most spectacular harbour settings in the world. Whatever your choice in summer fun, Vancouver is a beautiful place to be.

Restaurants a delicious variety of dining spots

Traditional British restaurants are only one side of the cosmopolitan dining scene in the Vancouver area. Today, you can enjoy the authentic cuisine of France, Germany, Italy and many other lands in delightfully "foreign" surroundings. The city has come alive with dozens of charming continental restaurants, not only downtown, but in outlying areas, too. And dining can be as modest or luxurious as you'd prefer. You can choose from sumptuous downtown restaurants, some with spectacular harbour views . . . or tiny hideaways offering small but enticing menus. Of course, the flavour of the sea is very much a part of dining in Vancouver, and several fine restaurants specialize in succulent seafoods. To help you decide which dining spot appeals to your mood of the moment, we've prepared a guide to restaurants in Vancouver. It's available without charge from the Greater Vancouver Visitors & Convention Bureau, 650 Burrard in downtown Vancouver.

Some people are high on mountain-top dining.

Smorgasbords are a tempting possibility.

Let's make it a festive affair.

Dining in the Japanese manner.

The beauty of summer

Above all, Vancouver is a scenic city . . . and summer is the season to enjoy it most. You can stroll quiet trails in Stanley Park . . . or savor the floral beauty of Queen Elizabeth Park. You can laze in the warm sands of English Bay, or one of the city's other fine beaches, and watch ships and sailboats drifting by across the shimmering sea. Another beauty spot is the University of British Columbia campus, with its delightful Japanese gardens and grove of Indian totem poles. Of course, mountains are also a big part of the scene — and a drive across Lions Gate Bridge will put you in the midst of towering beauty. You can drive almost to the top of Seymour Mountain . . . ride a gondola car to the top of Grouse . . . or hike along scenic mountain trails. It's a great way to discover nature on the outskirts of the city . . . and to enjoy a high-up view of city and sea. If you have a craving for natural beauty, Vancouver is the place to spend this summer.

GRAY LINE 'The Historians of Sightseeing'

Night life

a glittering and richly varied show

It might surprise you to learn that Vancouver is one of the most lively "after dark" cities on the Pacific Coast. The city's major night clubs feature top line acts from across North America . . . and the many smaller clubs and cabarets offer less renowned but still excellent entertainment. You can also have a swinging good time in a variety of discotheques and coffeehouses. And many of Vancouver's fine restaurants offer entertainment while you dine, ranging from pleasant background music to rousing sing-along style. In addition to "live" entertainment, you can enjoy the finest movies of the day in theatres throughout the area. The greatest concentration of these is along Theatre Row, a recently-re-modelled section of downtown Granville Street. A detailed guide to night life and entertainment around Vancouver is yours for the asking. Simply contact the Greater Vancouver Visitors & Convention Bureau, 650 Burrard, downtown.

For those who like casual atmosphere.

Touring ice shows are glittering affairs.

Several hotels offer entertainment and dancing.

Night clubs really swing.

Strummin' on the old banjo.

Chinatown

Vancouver's Chinatown is the second largest in North America, with unique features that make it fascinating by day or night. The gift and curio shops stocked with an incredible variety of Oriental imports . . . the many restaurants offering authentic Chinese cuisine . . . the night spots which blend the flavour of East and West in a distinctly appealing manner: all these qualities combine to make the area a city within the city, only a few short blocks from the centre of downtown activity, yet totally different from the rest of Vancouver.

The centre of Chinatown's varied attractions.

A place that loves to celebrate.

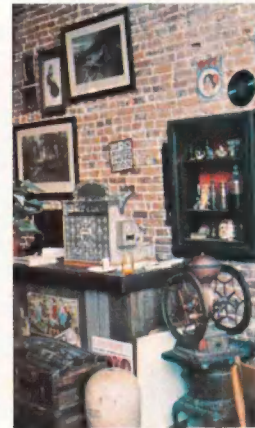

Food markets are tempting.

Gastown

In 1867, "Gassy Jack" Deighton set up a hotel in what was little more than a shantytown on the banks of Burrard Inlet. The area was called "Gastown" in his honor — and around this modest site, the city of Vancouver grew. Today, there's new life in the colorful old area. Ancient buildings have been restored to house antique shops, art galleries, boutiques and restaurants. It's a casual place, rich in reminders of the past, brimming with delights of the present . . . ideal for a delightful meal, unusual gift buying and endless hours of fascinated browsing.

"Gassy Jack" is still around.

Images of bygone days.

It's a real "people" place.

Robsonstrasse

Special events

Officially, it's Robson Street, but the concentration of European shops and restaurants has earned it the more popular name of "Robsonstrasse". The main influence is German, but other ethnic groups are also represented in this two-block section of downtown Vancouver. It's a delight to walk along and a uniquely rewarding area for shopping. Imported glassware, shoes, fabrics, bric-a-brac . . . enticing cheeses, sausages, pastries, seafoods. If you can spare the time from window-gazing and keepsake-buying, treat yourself to lunch or dinner in one of the tantalizing continental restaurants.

Vancouver offers a choice of special events to please every age and taste. Major cultural events, such as symphonic concerts and operatic performances, are housed in the elegant Queen Elizabeth Theatre, while the adjoining Playhouse Theatre has a full-time acting company. The biggest annual event is the Pacific National Exhibition, the gala wind-up to summertime in Vancouver . . . while each spring, the Vancouver Sea Festival celebrates another side of the city's personality. A complete listing of events, with specific dates, is available from the Greater Vancouver Visitors & Convention Bureau, 650 Burrard in downtown Vancouver. (Including those of Canada Summer Games, Aug. 3-12, in Burnaby and New Westminster.)

It's in the heart of downtown Vancouver—but a complete change-of-pace.

Burnaby between the river and the sea

Burnaby extends from Burrard Inlet in the north to the Fraser River in the south, and is British Columbia's most populous municipality. Located directly east of Vancouver, its residential areas merge with those of the city . . . but Burnaby has its own personality and special points of interest. "Highest" on the list is Simon Fraser University, one of Canada's newest centres of learning, situated grandly atop Burnaby Mountain. From this vantage point, you seem far removed from the urban areas; to the north the view is of Indian Arm, a mountain-rimmed inlet of the sea. Yet only minutes away are modern shopping centres, fine restaurants, hotels and motels. Burnaby is like that . . . bustling with the activity of more than 125,000 people, yet still retaining many areas of natural charm. Central Park, for example, while including such features as a stadium and miniature golf course, still encompasses a large expanse of virgin forest. Burnaby also has two lakes and innumerable spots for family picnics. For further information contact the Greater Vancouver Visitors & Convention Bureau, 650 Burrard in downtown Vancouver.

New Westminster the Royal City

Called "the Royal city" because Queen Victoria personally selected its name, New Westminster overlooks the Fraser River just east of Burnaby. Once British Columbia's capital city, it's now a bustling centre of 40,000 people, with a variety of special attractions. There's a wealth of historic interest at Irving House, an authentically furnished Victorian residence with an adjoining museum. A touch of the Orient in the Japanese Friendship Garden next to city hall. The colour and fascination of fishing boats and deepsea vessels which reflect New Westminster's position as an important port city. For active fun, there's fishing in the Fraser at several nearby sand bars, just a few miles northeast of the city. New Westminster also features two unique annual events: the children's May Day, likely the largest children's festival of its type anywhere . . . and the Hyack Anvil, an explosive salute to Queen Victoria's birthday on May 24th. Complete information is available from the New Westminster Convention & Visitors Bureau or the Greater Vancouver Visitors & Convention Bureau.

The North Shore a world of mountains and seashore

Along the North Shore of Burrard Inlet are two major communities. The first, extending east of Lions Gate Bridge, is North Vancouver. It's both a thriving deepsea port and a richly scenic holiday area. Here, you can ride a gondola car up Grouse Mountain or drive nearly to the peak of Seymour: both spectacular viewing and skiing sites. You can hike forest trails and enjoy a thrilling walk across a suspension bridge in Capilano Canyon or Lynn Canyon Park. And enjoy swimming, boating and picnics beside the sea at places like Cates Park and Deep Cove. The other half of the North Shore is West Vancouver, which includes gracious mountainside residential areas and several pockets of local colour. Head west along Marine Drive and you'll come to Ambleside, a pleasant shopping area only a stone's throw from a fine sandy beach; then the charming shops of Dundarave . . . and the yacht-and-boat basin of Fisherman's Cove. A few miles further you enter Horseshoe Bay, a famed salmon fishing centre. Returning, drive the Upper Levels Highway for a panoramic view of city and sea. For complete information on the North Shore, contact the Greater Vancouver Visitors & Convention Bureau.

Richmond the island municipality

The municipality of Richmond is located on two major islands at the mouth of the Fraser River. It lies directly south of Vancouver and is connected with the city by a network of highways and bridges. On the one hand, it's farming country . . . the flat, fertile delta lands yielding rich crops of vegetables and berries. On the other, it's a large residential area, with a modern shopping centre that includes two major department stores. Richmond also encompasses the fishing village of Steveston . . . and is the site of Vancouver's vast new international air terminal. Activities? The best of city, country and seaside. During summer, you can pick your own blueberries, strawberries or raspberries . . . and take part in the annual Salmon Queen Festival. There's good salmon fishing in the offshore waters throughout the year. Plus facilities for horseback riding, golf, skating, archery . . . you name it. You'll also find a good choice of hotels and motels, and restaurants for gourmet dining and everyday meals. Contact the Greater Vancouver Visitors & Convention Bureau, 650 Burrard in Vancouver for further information.

CUSTOMS REGULATIONS FOR U.S.A. RESIDENTS

Important—United States residents returning from Canada may take back, once every 31 days, merchandise for personal or household use to the value of $100, duty and tax free, provided they have remained in Canada 48 hours. Members of a family household travelling together may combine their personal exemptions—thus a family of five could be entitled to a total exemption of $500.

Under the foregoing exemption, up to 100 cigars and 1 quart of alcoholic beverages may be imported. No limit on cigarettes. If, however, the State laws of residence prohibit importation of such alcohol, United States Customs will not clear. Under a new law effective October 1, 1965, tourists returning to the United States from abroad will be limited in the amount of duty-free purchases brought back to $100 retail. Previously the limit was $100 wholesale. This exemption applies only to articles tourists bring back with them. Anything shipped later is subject to duty.

Exemption forms are expected to be checked and baggage inspected more closely, and sales receipts or other proof of value will be required.

Persons crossing the International Boundary at one point and swinging back into the United States in order to travel to another part of Canada should inquire at United States Customs regarding special exemption requirements. All articles acquired in Canada must be declared to the United States Customs officers on return. Articles that do not accompany the resident must be declared separately on U.S. Customs form 6063.

Visiting Canada for less than 48 hours—Residents of the United States visiting Canada for less than 48 hours, may take back, for personal or household use, merchandise to the value of $10 duty and tax free. Such exemption must not include more than 50 cigarettes; 10 cigars; 1 ounce of manufactured tobacco; 4 ounces of alcohol; or 4 ounces of alcoholic perfume.

Members of a family are not permitted to combine the value of their purchases under this exemption.

Gifts worth no more than $10 retail—rather than wholesale—may be shipped to friends at home (limit is one gift to one person per day), but the practice of mailing duty-free goods to yourself will be eliminated.
